Sidebar callout. Vulnerability Disclosure Programs (VDPs) set guidelines for hackers and security researchers to submit vulnerabilities found in defined assets and systems. Many hackers appreciate the challenge, and VDPs harness that creativity to provide a continuous source of new vulnerabilities.

"Quote Treatment. We wanted a testing partner that would go beyond OWASP or any of the other basic security standards and expose our assets to a broad range of testing tools and techniques. Hacker-powered security provides a more realistic testing environment than we've had in the past."
